THE EXTENT OF ONE of the three ice gorges in the Mississippi River is shown in this aerial view looking east over Cairo, Ill. Coast Guard spokesmen said the ice is formed as

Will Legislature Be Seeing Double?

LANSING (AP) — Somewhat like Janus, the Roman God of Gates, the Michigan legislature will be looking in two directions at once when it convenes its 1970 session at noon Wednesday.

Ahead is November's election. It will shape the political balance for all 148 seats in the House and Senate in 1971, and decide which party controls the Governor's chair.

134 Bills On Calendar

Behind lies 1969, with a tangle of problems and proposals that never were finally resolved. The House calendar lists more than 134 bills that have been gathering dust since the doldrum days of late July. Back then, it took 10 pages to list them all. Those bills are what Gov. William G. Milliken must penetrate to find the 12 parts of his education reform package. Legislators can use the backlog to escape or ensnare the controversies and political difficulties raised by the Governor's program.

Tax Rise Hinted

Milliken and a curiously bipartisan leadership coalition insist the whole can be put back together and passed; but at this point, that involves raising taxes in an election year.

Republican Majority Leader

Emil Lockwood, expected to relinquish his Senate seat to run for Secretary of State, calls a tax increase extremely likely. So, in effect, does Democratic House Speaker William A. Ryan, for whom education reform is a chance to try to establish a $25 million precedent for state aid to private, sectarian schools.

Against Parochialism

Many attorney-legislators believe parochialism blatantly unconstitutional. They have withheld support for much of the package until that issue is voted on.

But parochialism has its legal advocates who point to Michigan precedents set by related state payments and to court or legislative affirmation of parochialism in other states.

Ask Spending Cut

Some legislators anticipated that prospect and have called on Milliken to hold spending to present levels or cut it substantially.

"We probably ought to establish a book of boo-boos of the different departments and people that cost this state money," Sen. Harvey L. Lodge, R-Waterford, told colleagues recently. He said only mental health and state police appropriations must be maintained at present levels.

Laird Fearing Cut In Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird is described by aides as concerned that a congressional limit on spending for his Vietnamization program could slow U.S. troop withdrawals from the war.

The money restriction, placed on the amount of military aid the United States can give South Vietnam as well as neighboring Laos and Thailand, does not jeopardize announced troop pullouts.

But it could, officials say, have a definite impact in future months if the administration wanted to accelerate the turnover of weapons and equipment to South Vietnam.

Aides say Laird has been trying to persuade members of Congress not to place any arbitrary ceilings on Vietnamization spending in the budget being worked out for the fiscal year beginning next July.

The Vietnamization plan, financed under military aid, provides South Vietnam with such things as airplanes, trucks, guns, radios and training.

Last year the Senate wrote a provision into the defense budget specifying that military aid could not exceed $2.5 billion in one year.

That came close to crimping the current rate of spending for Vietnamization, $2.2 billion annually.

According to aides, Laird fears sentiment against big U.S. commitments overseas could lead to a similar restriction on military aid in the fiscal 1971 budget soon to go to Congress.

Beisan Valley Skirmish Scene

TEL AVIV (AP) — Mortar and machine-gun fire rattled across Israel's Beisan Valley today, breaking a 10-day lull in fighting there.

Israel claimed that Arab guerrillas in Jordan fired on two Israeli border patrols near the Maoz Haim and Beit Yosef settlements south of the Sea of Galilee. There were no Israeli casualties or damage, sources said, and Israeli army units returned the fire.

The valley had been quiet since Israeli jets blasted the Ghor irrigation canal in Jordan 10 days ago.

In the occupied Gaza Strip, an Israeli taxi driver was killed and three Arabs wounded when the cab touched off an explosive device on a main road, near the Jibiliya refugee camp, then crashed into another car.

An Israeli military court in occupied Nablus sentenced five Arab infiltrators from Jordan to life imprisonment. The Arabs, members of the Syrian-based E-Saiqua guerrilla group, were convicted of infiltration, possession of arms and explosives and membership in an illegal organization.

The Palestinian guerrillas threatened to resume their war against the Lebanese government unless it ends new restrictions on their operations.

488 Homicides

DETROIT (AP) — A total of 488 homicides were reported in Detroit during 1969, a new record for the city. The total surpassed by 65 the previous record of 423 which was set in 1968.

Texan Offers $100 Million For Release Of All POWs

WASHINGTON (AP) — H. Ross Perot, the Texas billionaire who failed in getting two plane loads of supplies to American prisoners held by North Vietnam, has come up with another unusual plan—$100 million offer to buy the captives' freedom.

Similar To Cuban Deal

Perot said Sunday he had made the offer, similar to the tractor deal made with Cuba for release of the Bay of Pigs prisoners, in a cable last week to North Vietnamese Prime Minister Pham Van Dong.

Until release of the prisoners is worked out, Perot further offered to supply everything needed to run the prisoner of war camps. And to sweeten the pot, he offered similar nonmilitary goods for needy North Vietnamese civilians.

He told of his offer on "Issues and Answers," an ABC television interview program.

Later Perot said he wished the $100 million figure, which he stated in an answer to panelist's question, had not "gone out over television."

Would Do Anything

But he insisted he would do anything he could to get the men freed.

"Cost is not the key issue," Perot said at a later news conference. "The key issue is will the North Vietnamese begin talking—is there something they need more than the men?"

Gift Plan Fails

Last month Perot spent more than $600,000 taking two chartered airliners on a 30,000-mile odyssey with gifts and messages for the prisoners. After flying to Bangkok, Thailand, Vientiane, Laos, and Copenhagen, Perot was forced to give up Dec. 31 when the Soviets refused him permission to deliver

Biafra Troops Quit; 30-Month Fight Ends

U.S. Command Lists Units Due To Leave Asia

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today the major units among the 50,000 American troops being withdrawn from Vietnam by April 15. They include the 1st Infantry Division, the 26th Marine Regiment and the 3rd Brigade of the 4th Infantry Division.

Also pulling out will be three squadrons of the Air Force's 12th Tactical Fighter Wing, Navy service support units and "a number of smaller combat support and service support units of all services," the command said.

These smaller units will include several artillery battalions and a civil affairs company, it was learned. A 10 per cent cut is also being ordered in many headquarters staffs.

Headquarters said the first units will begin moving out early next month. The 1st Infantry Division was the first Army division sent to Vietnam, 4½ years ago.

The latest withdrawal, the third ordered by President Nixon, will reduce the authorized U.S. troop ceiling in Vietnam to 434,000. It will bring the total number of American troops withdrawn since last July to 110,000.

The U.S. Command announced today the 50,000 men being withdrawn in the next three months will include 29,500 Army, 12,900 Marines, 5,600 Air Force and 2,000 Navy men.

A weekly summary also issued today by the U.S. Command showed that American troop strength in Vietnam dropped 6,000 last week, to 467,500, the lowest since November 1967.

Nursing Home Fire Probe Continues

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — The state's top arson expert says he needs two more days of investigation before drawing any concrete conclusions about a rest home fire fatal to 24.

There most surely will be some recommendations," said Gene Jewell, chief arson investigator for the state fire marshal's office. "I'd hate to think 24 people could die and there would be no recommendations come from it."

He said no violations of safety regulations had been found at the Harmar house rest home, scene of Friday night's fire.

Massive Airlift Set

Britain and the United States readied a massive airlift of food and medicine as soon as the Nigerian government gave the word it would admit the planes.

A radio report from the French colony of Gabon, to the south of Nigeria, said the latest Biafran capital—Orlu—had fallen. Reports from Gabon added that panic-stricken members of the Biafran elite shouldered aside relief workers for the escape seats on the last relief planes leaving Uli.

Secession Program Doesn't Materialize

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Biafra surrendered today after fighting 30 months in an effort to enforce secession from Nigeria.

Maj. Gen. Philip Effiong, left in charge in Biafra by Gen. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, told the nation in a broadcast: "I am convinced now the struggle must be put to an end and stop the bloodshed that is going on."

He said he ordered a disengagement of Biafran army units and asked commanders to stop fighting. He appealed to the Nigerian leader, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, for an immediate cease-fire.

He said he would apply to federal unit commanders at Biafra's edges for conditions.

Effiong, a 45-year-old member of the Efik minority tribe in Biafra, said: "any question of a government in exile is repudiated by our people."

The sources in Lagos said that before the ground troops moved in, Ilyushin 28 bombers flown by Egyptians rained bombs on the jungle airstrip and MIG17's piloted by white mercenary pilots strafed the strip with cannon fire.

Military sources said casualties were heavy among Biafrans who had assembled by the thousands in the area in hopes of catching a ride out of the crumbling enclave.

Marine commando troops bypassed Oguta and raced around a flank to capture the airstrip late Sunday night, the sources said.

Biafran regulars continued to resist on some other fronts but were reported drawing back under heavy federal offensives.

The surrender broadcast followed the capture by Nigerian federal troops of Uli airstrip, Biafra's last link to the outside world. The strip came under massive air attacks that reduced its roadbed runway to rubble, according to reliable sources in Lagos.

Ojukwu, leader of Biafra in its 32 months of secession from federal Nigeria, fled Sunday for an unknown destination.

The key town of Orlu, to which many government offices and the government's main radio transmitter were moved after Umuhia fell, was in danger of falling, military sources said.

With the Nigerian forces close to victory over the secessionist state, Biafra's leader, Gen. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, left the country, saying in a prerecorded radio address he was going in search of peace and that he hoped to return soon. Reliable reports said he had taken his family with him.

VC Communications Complex Uncovered

SAIGON (AP) — American forces have uncovered a major North Vietnamese communications center just north of Saigon which intercepted at least 1,400 U.S. operational messages and presumably compromised American field operations, official sources disclosed today.

Twelve North Vietnamese soldiers trained to speak and write English fluently were captured and another killed when the communications center was discovered three weeks ago, the sources said.

The center was located in a bunker complex in the Iron Triangle area about 25 miles north of Saigon, they said.

The sources said the North Vietnamese were not able to break authorized American codes—which frequently are changed—but many U.S. troops were using unauthorized or "home-made" codes which were easily deciphered by the North Vietnamese.

He said there is no firm evidence that the North Vietnamese interception of radio messages resulted in any American combat deaths. But he said he assumed that enemy troops were able to avoid ambushes, bombings and artillery strikes through the interceptions.

Sources said although it had been widely assumed that such

Police Grab Two In Kidnap Plot

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — Police burst into an apartment Sunday night and captured two men charged in the kidnaping of a 16-year-old girl.

The last of five men sought in the kidnaping, the two were identified as Booker T. Burkhalter, 24, alias Terry Anderson, of Dallas, Tex., and Jonnie Tasby, 21, of Lafayette County, Ark. When the officers entered, the two were lying on a bed watching "The FBI" television program.

Herbert Hoxie, special agent in charge of the FBI in Arkansas, said the men offered no resistance. They were unarmed.

They had been charged earlier in Thursday night's kidnaping of Karen Vickers, pretty, auburn-haired daughter of a Texarkana, Ark., grocer. Police said she was taken from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Vickers, by three armed and masked men and held for 26 hours for $40,000 ransom.

The girl was freed unharmed Friday night at a Texarkana motel. The ransom was not paid.

End Of Draft Deferrals Aim Of Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration wants to move to end most draft deferments, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says.

"The President wants to move ... so that all young people are treated equally and fairly," Laird said Sunday. "And I believe we will move in the direction of eliminating some of the occupational deferments, student deferments and other types of deferments."

But he added he wasn't talking about all deferments, such as in medical and hardship cases. He said he believed these deferments can be gradually phased out.

Gloria Hansley Named District Census Manager

Mrs. Robert Hansley of Escanaba has been selected as District Manager for the 1970 Upper Peninsula census, Congressman Philip E. Ruppe announced today.

As District Manager, Mrs. Hansley will be responsible for conducting a complete and accurate census, and will have over-all authority for the recruitment, organization, training, and direction of a field force of about 450 people, Ruppe said.

The former Gloria Lee of Escanaba, Mrs. Hansley is a graduate of Stevens College in Missouri and attended Michigan State University at East Lansing. She has had management experience with Dun and Bradstreet as well as with British Overseas Airways in New York.

In addition, she has served on the staff of Radio Station WDBC.

Her broad range of church and social activities includes membership on the Board of the Cancer Society of Delta County and the Board of Deacons of the First United Presbyterian Church of Escanaba. Both Mrs. Hansley and her husband, an attorney, are avid sports enthusiasts. Their hobbies include fishing, snowmobiling, canoeing and golf. She is presently chairman of the Women's Golf Association of Escanaba.

"We are fortunate," Ruppe said, "to have found an individual with Gloria Hansley's fine qualifications. This is an important post. Congressional and legislative reapportionment as well as state and federal aid programs are based on census figures. Mrs. Hansley realizes an accurate census is vital to Northern Michigan, and I am certain she will do an outstanding job."

Ruppe said the District Census office for the 15 counties of the Upper Peninsula will be in Escanaba. He expects recruitment of staff personnel to begin immediately and the recruitment of crew leaders (supervisors) and enumerators (census takers) to be organized after the headquarters staff is organized.

U.P. City To Curtail Crime

ISHPEMING—City Manager Frank Gerstenecker and Police Chief Frank Sarvello were instructed by city councilmen to confer with businessmen about the growing number of burglary cases here.

Additional officers should be added to the city's police force, the council was told at a regular meeting.

In contrast to an average of 38 breaking and entering cases for a city of this size, Ishpeming last year had 54 such cases, Gerstenecker said.

He noted that 23 of the cases were solved, a higher than average rate.

Tudy Sarvello, grocery store proprietor, told the council: "We're tired of spending sleepless nights protecting our businesses because of an inadequately staffed police force."

His store was one of four burglarized during a single week in December.

Elaborate Show Turns Into Bomb

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The elaborate, expensively arranged pre-game and halftime show in the Super Bowl Sunday proved something short of an artistic success.

It was in fact, a panic.

Two giant balloons—filled with hot air from blow torches and carrying the colors of the rival teams—were supposed to engage in a race.

It was to be the show-stopper.

The Chiefs' balloon never got off the ground. The Vikings' balloon, similar to the Jules Verne fictional model that went around the world in 80 days and bearing a character in a Norseman's horned fur helmet, banged into the stands, the torch still flaming.

There was a gasp from the crowd. The wreckage was disengaged. No one was hurt.

A parade of inflated cartoon characters, just like a Macy's Christmas parade, circled the stadium.

The feature of the parade—a huge model of a Mississippi River steamboat with sidewheels and beautiful models in hoop skirts—waited at one of the portals.

The people who could see it strained their eyes and waited. The boat never came out. Somebody said the field was too wet.

In a reenactment of the Battle of New Orleans, Andy Jackson's white stallion became fractious when the cannons fired. The horse bolted and Andy didn't get off a shot.

Maybe that's the reason the scene ended with an unhistoric twist, with the Yanks and Jean Lafitte's Frenchmen all sprawled on the ground in death and the red-coated British still firing away spiritedly.

A stage man had to come on the field, tap the dead soldiers and remind them to come alive and get out of the way.

Marguerite Piazza, the operatic soprano, sang Basin Street Blues but was drowned out by Al Hirt's blaring trumpet.

Veteran actor Pat O'Brien, who played Knute Rockne in the movies, tried to read the words of the Star Spangled Banner during a pregame rendition of the National Anthem.

The microphone went dead. There was screeching and static. Doc Severinsen's trumpet band were louder than O'Brien. It didn't matter much. Pat finished a stanza ahead of the music, anyhow.

That was just a part of the foulup.

The game started with a weather bureau tornado alert for the area and ended in a surprise Indian raid—by the Chiefs.

The Minnesota Vikings were favored to win by two touchdowns.

The Kansas City Chiefs pulled another Little Big Horn, 23-7.

Private Forest Tax Aid Given

LANSING — Checks amounting to more than $77,000 were mailed this week to 50 Michigan counties, covering the Department of Natural Resources' 1969 tax-paying requirements for privately-owned commercial forest reserve lands.

The DNR's latest tax-aid grants, scaled uniformly at 10 cents an acre, are up about $14,000 from last year's payments. They are linked to 772,536 acres enrolled under the state's Commercial Forest Reserve Program.

The Upper Peninsula's 15 counties, with about 759,000 of that total acreage, received the largest share of the payments. Approximately $75,900 were distributed among them for their commercial forest reserve holdings.

Iron County drew $14,606, Gogebic was next highest with $10,219. Others are Baraga, $9,131; Marquette, $7,407; Ontonagon, $6,247; Menominee, $6,057; Dickinson, $4,398; Delta, $4,373; Chippewa, $3,639; and Schoolcraft $3,414.

Also receiving tax support from the DNR for commercial forest lands in their areas were Alger, Houghton, Luce and Mackinac.

All 50 counties will receive additional tax payments from the actual owners of the commercial forest reserve lands to supplement grants made by the DNR from the State's General Fund. Holders of these specially designated lands will pay the counties 5 to 10 cents per acre for their forest property, the exact figure depending on local millage rates.

Those grants already made to the counties by the DNR are designed to provide tax relief for owners of commercial forest reserve holdings while timber growing on their lands is still not ready for logging operations.

Millage, Valuation Compared:

Escanaba School Tax Highest In Local Area

The Escanaba Area Public schools have the highest total tax rate of 14 school districts in the area, according to reports released today.

Taxpayers in the Escanaba Area school district for 1969-70 will pay a total of 25.223 mills. The total includes 6.7 mills allocated from the Delta County Tax Allocation Board and 12.4 extra voted mills for school operation and 4.123 mills for debt retirement.

Powers-Spalding levies 24.56 mills, Hermansville collects 23.86 mills and Gladstone 21.8 mills. (See table for complete comparison.)

School districts in the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate School District rank among the top in the Upper Peninsula in allocated millage, but near the bottom in extra voted millage for school operation.

The reports covering the 1969-70 school year were compiled by Donald Brumbaugh of Norway, who recently resigned as superintendent of the Norway - Vulcan school district. Brumbaugh has been interested in the economics of education in the U.P. for a number of years.

The figures cover only public school facilities. Delta County leads the 15 U.P. counties with an average of 8.4566 mills allocated by the county tax allocation board for school operation, but ranks 13th with a nine-district average of 7.1055 extra voted mills, the report shows.

Schoolcraft County, a single county district (the Manistique Area Public Schools) ranks 10th in county allocated millage, 6.84, and also 10th on extra voted millage, 9.5.

Besemer Highest
In total millage for school operation, the nine Delta County school districts average 15.222 mills (12th in the U.P.) while Schoolcraft County levy 16.34 (11th in the U.P.)

The greatest operational millage of any school district is levied at Besemer, where 39.559 mills are collected, including 34.56 extra voted mills. The Besemer district has a tax base of only $3,906,456 in state equalized valuation which figures to $6,028 per membership child. The per child base is 53rd of 59 districts in the U.P. which offer K-12 programs.

Statistics show, generally, that in the U.P. the greater the tax base the lower operational millage is required.

In total millage levied for schools, including debt retirement, Delta County ranks 9th among the 15 Upper Peninsula counties with a nine district average of 20.0203 mills. Schoolcraft County is 13th, collecting 17.69 mills.

Escanaba Tops Area
Besemer again leads the individual districts with 39.559 mills. Escanaba Area public schools rank 20th of 59 districts in the U.P. with K-12 programs.

The Gladstone public schools have the highest millage for debt service among K-12 districts in the U.P., according to the report, paying 9.10 mills. Flat Rock Schools levy 9.5 mills for debt service, tops for elementary districts. The report points out, however, that some governmental units in consolidated districts are paying as high as 13 mills for debt service.

State Equalized Valuation (SEV) for the Escanaba Area public schools, $60,788,630, is the highest of any school district in the Upper Peninsula. Marquette follows with $56,082,235.

Ranks 20th
On a per membership child basis, however, Escanaba ranks 20th with $12,717 per student. Watersmeet with $8,307,232 total valuation, has the greatest tax base for each membership child with $42,384 per student. Lowest tax base of the 59 districts with a K-12 program is at Rudyard, where only $2,159 backs each student. Rudyard, however, gets special assistance from the federal government because of the impact of Kinchloe Air Force base on enrollment.

The total State Equalized Valuation of the Upper Peninsula is $835,184,450.

Valuations Listed
The total valuation and valuation per membership child in parentheses for local K-12 districts:
Escanaba Area — $60,788,630 ($12,717); Manistique — $28,152,350 ($14,276); Stephenson — $14,489,457 ($10,291); Gladstone — $10,346,150 ($6,607); Big Bay de Noc — $8,352,798 ($13,968); Rapid River — $7,733,050 ($13,519); Powers-Spalding — $4,329,537 ($7,264); Bark River-Harris — $3,948,011 ($5,468); Carney - Nadeau — $3,157,108 ($8,650); Rock — $2,078,880 ($8,482); Baldwin Township — $2,484,200 ($12,421); Hermansville — $2,137,625 ($7,859).

In the elementary districts, the Brampton Township schools have a SEV of $18,722 for each membership child and Flat Rock schools have $6,695 per child.

The report also listed SEV figures for each district for each K-12 student and some local districts show slight increase in valuation from the membership child figure. Walter McClinck, superintendent of the Delta - Schoolcraft Intermediate School district, said the difference comes in the listing of adult students, which are included in the membership child category, but not in the K-12 listing.

Weather Station Reopening May Be Asked By Council

The reestablishment of the U.S. Weather Bureau station in Escanaba is expected to be supported by a resolution of the City Council to the U.S. Department of Commerce when it meets in regular session at 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 15, in the Civic Center.

The Weather Bureau office was established in Escanaba 99 years ago (May 19, 1871); had been located in the Post Office building since 1910; and was closed on Sept. 15, 1963.

The Council, in a pre-meeting ceremony, will present a retirement award to Francis Costley, city employee.

Other business to come before the Council will include: Report and recommendation on the utilization of the Standard Oil corner; authorization to expend the sum of $1,500 for the installation of sewage pump-out facilities at the yacht harbor; and a report and recommendation on bids for electrical transformers and for three four-door sedans.

Consideration of a request by Brandt Construction Co. for the purchase of a city-owned lot on 1st Ave. N. in the 500 block back of the Post Office.

Persistent Inflation Is Rated Freedom Threat

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Most people agree that persistent inflation produces serious dislocations in the economy of a nation, but most people also tend to believe that the damage is almost solely in the financial area.

This isn't quite true. The financial damage is most easily observed, especially in its effects on those whose incomes do not keep pace with rising prices. But sociologists and others note a long list of other effects.

Among them:
— It threatens freedom. When inflation reaches a dangerous rate, as many economists feel it has, there is generally a clamor for controls on wages, prices and credit in order to stop the upward spiral.

During 1969 there was a surprising rise in the number of businessmen who called for such controls. The Nixon administration indicated that the rise was surprisingly strong, for business usually assumes a "hands off" attitude.

Now, with inflation seeming to defy the best intentioned plans of the administration and the Federal Reserve, the attitude seems to persist and to pick up adherents among influential economic authorities.

The immediate loss of a certain amount of freedom might be small at first. But it's the precedent that counts.

— It tends to produce a chaos of market values. Reliable standards become obscured by constant shifting of prices, wages, interest rates until it becomes nearly impossible to rate the price of anything.

— It tends to reduce the desire and ability to compete. A nation's goods become too expensive to sell abroad. And as foreign goods become more competitive within a nation, industry and labor seek protection from government.

— It leads to a deterioration in quality. With competition for goods greater than the supply, buyers are forced to overlook quality. Buyers also tend to buy regardless of quality; they have the money to do so, or feel they will have the money soon. They might complain, but they do buy.

Quality deteriorates in another way also. With costs constantly rising, many manufacturers are tempted to cut expenses by reducing the quality of parts and the number of manufacturing steps.

The incentive for workers to perform to a very high standard often is undermined in the process.

— Money is siphoned off for luxuries while social needs are ignored. The current scramble for money is leaving many municipalities without funds for needed improvements. Individuals get wealthy; their environment deteriorates.

— Judgment becomes clouded. With the expectation that money will be available tomorrow if it isn't today, families and businesses are tempted to spend over their heads. The illusion exists that somehow the future will take care of everything, that the world owes the individual a living.

— Ethics deteriorate. The tendency exists for sellers of products and services—and that includes both industry and labor—to charge extravagant prices in hopes that, in the general pricing confusion, they can get away with it.

Phony get-rich-quick schemes abound. Cheap imitations flourish. Promoters have a field day, not just with the little guy but even with big stock market investors capable of dealing in the millions of dollars.

In general, as one individual selfishly fights another for a bigger share of the pie, as one segment of society jealously demands more than the other, something happens to the integrity of a nation. And it takes a long time to recover it.

No Other Way

Delta County doesn't see many protest rallies so when one comes along there is great temptation to perk up and take notice. And when a sizable crowd gathered the other night at Rapid River High School at a meeting of the newly-formed Upper Peninsula Game Protection Association to protest the antlerless (doe) deer hunting policies of the Department of Natural Resources the feeling can't be avoided that a great number of people in the area are disturbed about the deer herd in the Upper Peninsula.

The past season, although the official Department of Natural Resources figures have not been completed, apparently was not one of the better hunts in the U.P. There were greater numbers of hunters and fewer deer killed. More hunters than usual went home without filling their licenses.

It is a gross injustice, however, to place the entire blame for this phenomenon on the shoulders of the DNR and attribute it solely to the doe season. To do so is categorically ignoring all of the research and effort that Michigan, other states and private organizations have developed on deer.

The Department of Natural Resources and its professional game biologists — dedicated people like Dave Arnold in Lansing and Joseph Vogt in Escanaba — have been singled out because there is no other convenient agency or organization to blame. The department's game division is charged with management of the deer herd and willingly accepts that responsibility. It is doing the job to the best of its ability.

This doesn't mean that errors can't be made. When working in the field and not in a controlled laboratory there are too many variables — weather, forest fires, starvation, hunting, poaching, food conditions — to be 100 per cent accurate.

But biologists spend hours in the field attempting to get the best possible data with which to work and use other methods such as hunter questionnaires to supplement the data. Every deer that a biologist like Vogt sees when he's in the field is clicked off on a mechanical counter which he carries with him. When he returns to his office, the totals are recorded for analysis later.

Hundreds of deer killed during the season are checked. Deer killed on highways are checked and autopsied. Autopsies also are performed on deer found dead in the forests. Other techniques are used to gather information.

The purpose of this work isn't just to exercise the fingers. The DNR game division is every bit as interested as the hunter in a healthy deer herd as a valuable resource and economic asset. But a healthy herd must conform as closely as possible to the environment in which it lives to avoid the tragic and wasteful starvation losses which can happen when the herd overpowers the food supply in winter.

When the food is gone nature doesn't differentiate between does and bucks. The rule is survival of the fittest. And even if a doe does come through the winter, there is no guarantee that her fawn or fawns will survive in the spring or even be born alive. Research also has shown that a herd with sufficient food supply, although smaller, will produce more fawns than a larger herd which doesn't have adequate food. The net result could be more deer in the spring from a smaller herd in the fall.

So there are doe seasons along with buck seasons to cut down the competition for food and to maintain a balance in the herd. The decisions on those seasons are based on the recommendations of biologists who have devoted their life to the problems of wildlife management.

It should be no other way.

Something Is Wrong

Something is seriously wrong when poor people prefer to live in private slums rather than government housing projects, and that is the increasing trend across the country.

In St. Louis, for example, housing projects have up to a 40 per cent vacancy even though the city contains more than enough poverty-stricken families to fill the empty apartments.

The reason is that the poor are afraid to live in government housing because of the high crime rate.

Crime, however, is only one problem facing residents of low-cost government dwellings. In Detroit, Boston and New Haven, Conn., housing projects have deteriorated to the point that occupants face a cold winter because of boiler troubles and unfixed broken windows. In addition, maintenance is generally lacking, which results in filthy living conditions.

Still other crises confront public housing. According to George Romney, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, 15 major cities have government housing projects "on the verge of bankruptcy." The major reason is attributed to vandalism by both occupants and outsiders.

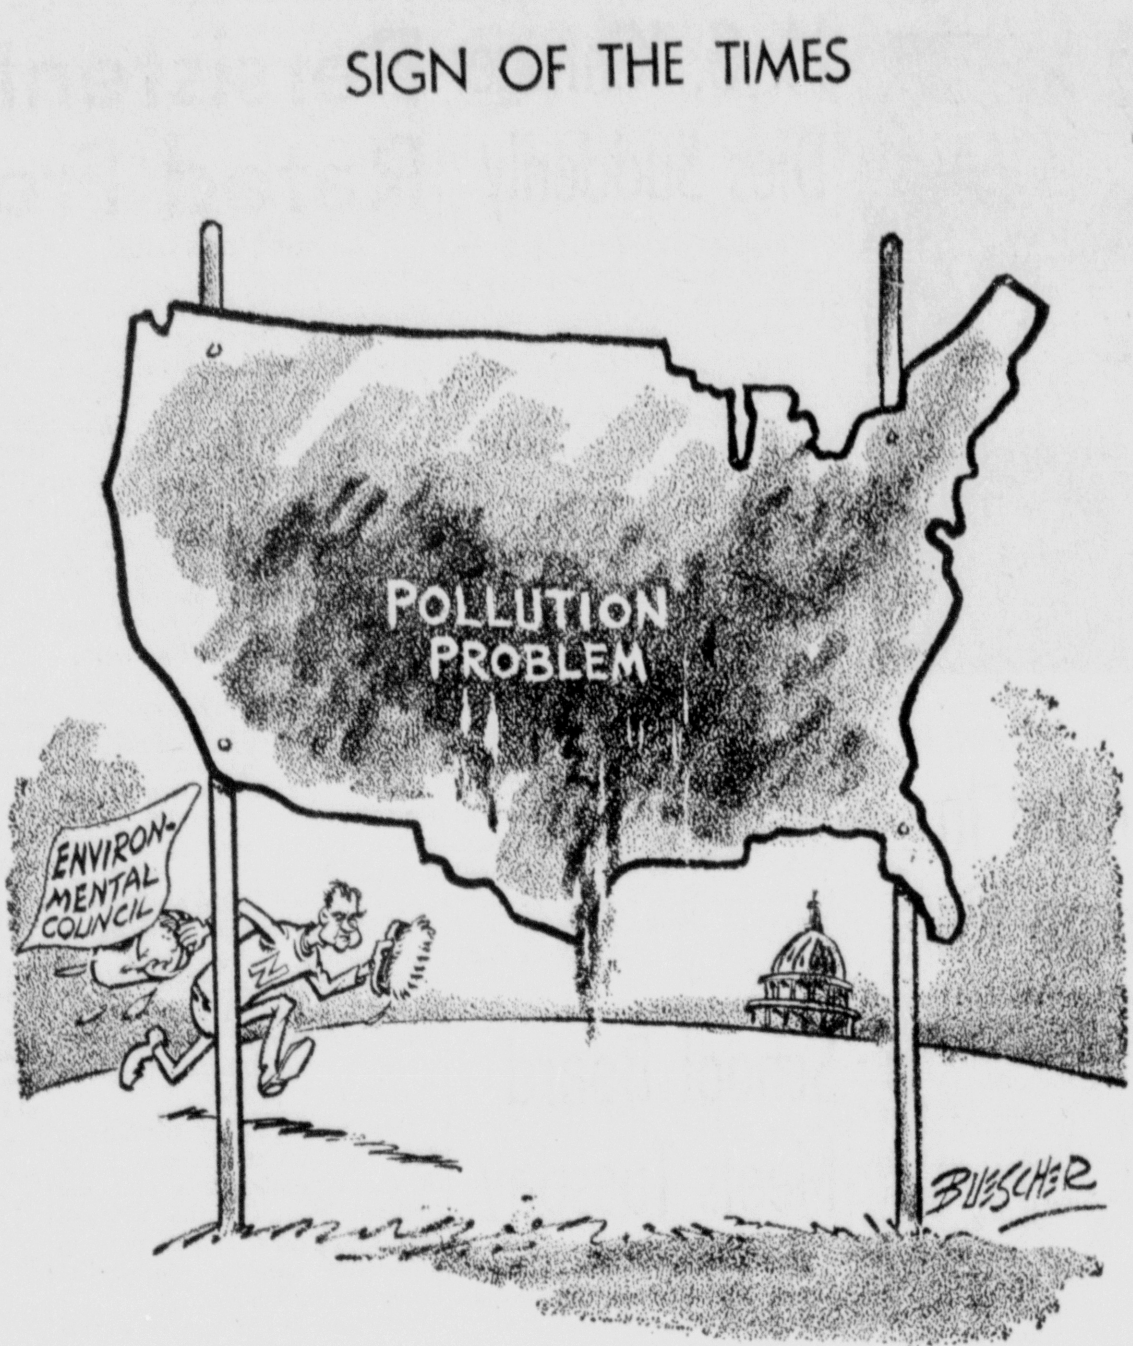

Raising the rent to meet these costs has, in a number of cases, put the rentals out of reach of the poor.

Having poured billions of dollars into public housing, federal officials aren't about to concede that perhaps their approach to better housing, namely, government construction, is not the answer. Instead, they want Congress to come up with still more money for renovation and construction of new housing.

The average worker, who makes too much to live in government dwellings but whose own housing suffers because of ever higher taxes, will have to subsidize the increasing costs of a program that shows every sign of continued failure.

Swiss Law Requires Everyone Be Armed

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

ZURICH—My friend Jurg keeps his rifle hanging in his apartment. He also has several rounds of ammunition handy. Strangely, he is not a hunter, nor does he care particularly for target practice. He keeps his rifle in condition solely because he is required to do so by Swiss law. Every Swiss man of military age must think of himself as an armed citizen-soldier.

The practically universal dispersal of guns throughout Switzerland has, so one is told, no effect whatsoever on the crime rate. Possession of a rifle, in fact, induces responsibility: it is a sobering reminder that the Swiss citizen must be on guard.

The American Rifle Association, which has been accused of being a terrible lobby, might make something of the Swiss example. If this little country is any criterion, it would be wrong to take the American citizen's rifle away from him. A law designed to make possession of a gun illegal would only serve to disarm the honest people; the gangster, not caring for the law in any case, would not scruple to keep his arsenal intact.

If the Swiss attitude toward the possession of rifles seems highly commonsensical, it does not necessarily follow that every Swiss practice should be imitated. My friend Jurg's wife who comes from West Germany, is very critical of the Swiss attitude toward political rights for women.

In some of the more enlightened communities and cantons women are allowed to vote for local candidates and on local issues. But women, in Switzerland, have never been allowed to take part in a federal election or a federal referendum. There is a prospect now that the issue will come before the parliament in Berne, but the feeling against women's rights is still strong.

Jurg's wife has a good historical explanation for the Swiss backwardness in the matter of "votes for women." The Swiss managed, by virtue of their mountainous country and those rifles hanging in Swiss homes, to escape embolism in two devastating world wars.

So the Swiss hausfrau has never had to take charge in the home community in the absence of the male population. Never having been thrown into the "forcing house" of war, the average Swiss woman of the older generation has never felt compelled to study political questions. It is hardly a good omen for "frauenstimmrecht," or women's rights, that the statistical participation in voting has actually gone down in the cantons that allow women to take part in local elections. The question is how many Swiss women really care about the vote.

In any case, the Swiss attitude toward federal leadership does not make for country-wide political campaigns on the American order. Who, outside of Switzerland, actually knows the name of the Swiss president?

The president of the moment happens to be Dr. Hans Peter Tschudi, a Social Democrat from Basel. But his job is a purely ceremonial one, and his term of office lasts for only a year. He is one of a seven-man executive, and merely "primus inter pares," or first among equals.

By a convention, two members of the executive come from French Switzerland, two from German Switzerland, and one from the Italian-speaking area of the Ticino; the remaining two can be from anywhere. The executive departments do their jobs in accordance with instructions from the legislature; it is as though President Nixon were merely the equal of Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney in his actual power.

The Swiss arrangement would certainly please Senator Bill Fulbright. It would effectively force the U. S. to become "porcupine country," raising its bristles against possible invaders (those rifles in the houses!) but taking no great part in world affairs.

If every nation would agree to become the equivalent of a Switzerland—or, better, a Swiss canton—it would no doubt be a wonderful thing. But try and tell that to the Czechs and the Hungarians; they know it won't happen in this generation no matter what Bill Fulbright says and does.

IRRESPONSIBLE TALK

To Rep. Charles H. Varnum (R-107th District) and Rep. Dominic J. Jacobetti (D-108th District):

I attended the Rapid River meeting of the U.P. Game Protection Association on Jan. 8 where the main topics were elimination of the doe harvest and vilification of the Department of Natural Resources and its personnel.

Never in my life have I seen a proposal for a decision on management of an important resource made with such lack of factual information. Usually such decisions merit factual study and analysis before decision. But not in this instance, where the decision was based on half truths and erroneous information with complete disregard of available statistical information, qualified biologists and nationally recognized game management concepts.

Statements were made by you and others at the meeting that there were "No Deer" in the woods. I think all responsible thinking people, including Department of Natural Resources personnel, know the deer population is down considerably from peak years. Knowledgeable people know the critical winter food supply is also down from peak years.

However, to state "There are no deer" is a gross distortion of facts. If not, how do you explain the following harvest of bucks year after year in the Upper Peninsula?

1960 — 14,930; 1961 — 17,260; 1962 — 17,800; 1963 — 19,710; 1964 — 23,380; 1965 — 17,450; 1966 — 15,180; 1967 — 11,280; 1968 — 14,400; 1969 — 14,000. (prelim.)

I was also very much surprised and shocked to hear our representatives to the Legislature make such derogatory statements about the Department of Natural Resources and its personnel. To refresh your memories, statements were made: 1, Didn't believe the reports prepared by the Department; 2, Didn't trust the men securing the information and compiling the data; 3, Didn't trust the personnel manning the checking stations at the Straits; 4, Had no faith in the deer population surveys even though the statistical procedure had been checked and proven by a contracted outside source; 5, That Legislative vote had been illegally influenced by Department personnel.

Statements such as these, particularly when stated and emphasized with a pointed finger, make me wonder what kind of people represent us in Lansing and by the same token can be believe or trust them? Personally, I think public utterances such as these are out of order and a public apology is in order.

By your own admissions you are not biologists and know little or nothing about game management. Therefore, why are you desirous of trying to take over the functions of management of a resource from those who are trained in such management and make it their career? This is an age of specialization and the specialists should properly be the guiding light. Maybe our legislative representatives should be limited to political science graduates with a doctor's degree instead of layman. It's a thought.

I am also concerned with your proposals to re-instate bounties on fox and bobcat. Your reasoning is that these predators are greatly detrimental to game. Here again you are blindly rushing into a proposal completely disregarding the results of nationwide studies which have proven time and again that such bounties are a waste of tax money (which you

Opening lead—king of hearts. Freak hands are not always instructive, but they usually are interesting. For example, look at this hand played in the 1957 Life Masters Individual.

The bidding shown occurred at the table where Edgar Kaplan, who won the event, was South. West opened one club, with plenty to spare, and North overcalled with a diamond. East probably should have bid a heart or raised clubs at this point, but he decided it would be tactically better to adopt a wait-and-see attitude.

Kaplan jumped to four spades, which West doubled. East came out of his shell long enough to say five clubs, which rolled around to North—who bid five spades.

West, who didn't realize he was bucking two voids, doubled again. East passed this time and West led the king of hearts. Declarer ruffed in dummy and had no trouble making the contract with an overtrick. This came to a tidy 1,050 points.

You might think that Kaplan had achieved a very good result by making five spades doubled and an overtrick, but, actually, he got a poor score because of the strange goings-on at the other tables.

At most of them East-West bid up to six clubs or hearts, and, in practically every case, either North or South "sacrificed" with his spades.

West naturally doubled and South just as naturally came home with twelve tricks against the normal heart or club lead. This came to 1,660 points. No West was sufficiently inspired to start with the ace and another diamond.

It's hard to point the finger of blame at those North-South pairs who failed to bid a slam, or at the West players who doubled six spades when it was reached. There is no rule to govern freak hands when they arise. They are a law unto themselves.

Ann Landers

'Astrologist' Seeing Draft Lottery 'Stars'

Dear Ann Landers: I am an amateur astrologist who has had considerable success forecasting events for my family and friends. I was horrified when I read of President Nixon's lottery plan for selecting draftees for the United States Army. The thought of an entire battalion of men born under the same sign gives me the screaming meemies. It would, of course, be ideal if the sign augured well for patriotic action, venturing into the unknown, and following orders blindly. A combat unit of men fortified with the courage and confidence of a favorable horoscope would be impossible to beat. But what if the horoscope should warn against hazardous activities, venturing into unfamiliar areas and taking risks? Are you aware, Ann, that millions of people in this country refuse to make a move before consulting the zodiac to see if the stars are positioned favorably? It is not inconceivable that if the horoscope bade ILL, entire companies of men might rise as one, remain in the bunks and refuse to budge.

Do you have any views on this? — Zoe D. Ack

Dear Avk: Sherman was right. War is hell. No matter how the guys are selected, I doubt that a four-star astrologer in the Pentagon would improve the situation, but I'll pass your theory on to General Hershey.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been happily married for fifteen years. Before I knew my husband I was involved, intimately, with two men. I've never mentioned these relationships to my husband, although he is beautifully mature and would probably have been most understanding. Now, the problem: Last week while shopping in a crowd I saw one of the shadows from my past. I have no idea if he saw me because I ran from the store like a criminal escaping the police. After I gathered my wits, I was ashamed of myself. This man was a friend as well as a lover. Now I wish I had behaved like a lady, greeted him graciously, asked about his family and told him about mine. On the other hand, maybe I was smart to leave well enough alone.

Had I encountered the other man from my past it would have been a different story. Ours was a sick love-hate affair. He was really a skunk and I have no kind feelings or warm memories of him. Furthermore, he's the kind of a louse who would probably make trouble for me. I am upset and troubled by my childish behavior. Yet, maybe I did do the right thing. If I run into my former friend-lover again should I greet him graciously or should I avoid him? — Agonizing In Fort Wayne

Dear Ag: Your spontaneous reaction was an emotional one. It was undoubtedly rooted in an indefinable fear of him or, more to the point, of yourself. Now that you can think about the situation rationally, you are ashamed of yourself for not behaving maturely. If you should encounter your old friend again you could probably handle the situation with maturity and grace. I would not recommend exchanging phone numbers or suggesting that the two families get together socially, but I would hope you could greet him and behave civilly.

'Wimpy' Big Problem At Beachside Cottage

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN

NEW YORK (AP) — James Joseph O'Connell and a couple of his bachelor friends had rented a cottage on Cape Cod for the summer and were enjoying the hectic social life at Hyannis.

The fly in the ointment was a guy named Wimpy. Wimpy was fat, obnoxious and—above all else—greedy. Though not a resident of the cottage, Wimpy seemed to spend more time there than its legitimate occupants.

While there, he ate their food and consumed vast quantities of their beer.

The three roommates held a small gathering one Friday night. It was to be the trio, their dates and few selected guests—Wimpy not included. But you didn't have to invite Wimpy—he could smell free beer a mile away. He arrived early, waddled directly to the icebox and grabbed a beer.

That night Wimpy was in good form—two six-packs himself. This forced James Joseph into an unplanned trip to the local grocery for supplies.

Unfortunately, the grocer had only one case of an obscure Midwestern beer left and it was warm. James Joseph squeezed the whole case into the freezer compartment.

Luckily, they didn't have to wait for it to cool. A friend arrived with another case already chilled, and James Joseph promptly forgot about the beer in the freezer.

He remembered it when supplies, thanks to Wimpy, began to get low again. The case was frozen solid. A man of ingenuity, James Joseph shoved the beer into the oven and turned it on.

Fortunately, still another friend showed up with a cold case—enough to see the party to its end.

When James Joseph returned from taking his date home, he was greeted with a series of explosions from the kitchen. He had forgotten to remove the beer from the oven. Only about three cans had exploded. He placed the good cans in the icebox.

The next afternoon, James Joseph got the urge for a cold beer. He opened one of the baked cans, now just the right temperature.

One taste was enough. It tasted like low-grade bilge water. Too bad, thought James Joseph, a whole case wasted. Then he got an idea.

He raced to the grocery, purchased another case of that obscure Midwestern beer and stashed it in the icebox.

Wimpy arrived in the late afternoon.

"Got any cold beer?" he asked.

"Yup," said James Joseph. "I'll get it."

James Joseph went to the icebox, grabbed one of the baked cans and three of the good cans. He gave the baked beer to Wimpy and distributed two to his roommates who had been cued.

The roommates drained theirs as fast as they could and put in an order for another round.

"How about you, Wimpy—another?" James Joseph asked.

"Er, no thanks. Still got some left," Wimpy said.

Wimpy nursed that one beer for four hours, while the other jovially quaffed dozens of cans. In ensuing weeks, that case of beer became a prized possession. James Joseph and his roommates did have to switch to that obscure Midwestern beer, but it was worth it just to be able to say on one of Wimpy's less and less frequent visits:

"Wimpy, can I get you a refill?"

"Er, no thanks, I've still got some left."

Educators Should Lead Reform: Solon

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Senator Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said Sunday night college campus problems must be resolved through reasoning and democratic processes but that educators must be leaders of reform.

"The ivory tower has been shattered by the outside world," Muskie said.

"The basic problem of college administrators is to decide how the outside interest can be made more relevant to the concerns of the student without destroying what each institution should possess."

Muskie gave the keynote address at the opening of the 56th meeting of the Association of American Colleges. His audience included presidents and deans of some 900 colleges and universities.

Three college presidents are to participate in a special forum Monday on "Freedom and Order on Campus." The speakers include Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of San Francisco State College, Dr. Edward J. Bloustein of Bennington, Vt., College, and Dr. Samuel E. Stumpf of Cornell College at Mt. Vernon, Iowa.

Muskie said students on the campus today think they ought to be free and think they are not.

"They think they should be free of outdated rules and free to change society," he said. "It does little good to say campus rules are much freer now than when we were in college. What is new is the magnitude of the student population and its access to information on what has happened on and off the campus."

He said a college or university must have three specific functions.

"It must be a community of scholars in a search for a variety of truths," he said. "It must provide teachers who can and do teach. It must be a resource of ideas and talent for the whole society."

There must be an appropriate balance among the three functions, he said, because undue emphasis on one or another could cause students to feel they are shut out.

"When students find themselves shortchanged because of professors being engaged in projects unrelated to the college needs of the students, the students themselves have a right to demand reform," he said.

"Reform is the only possible role for America. It offers real security to all her people—white and black, old and young, a whole society."

Sen. Levin Mum On Resignation From Chamber Job

LANSING (AP)—State Senate Minority Leader Sander M. Levin, D-Berkley, has declined to comment on a broadcast report that he will resign his leadership post in the upper chamber.

In a report by Lansing correspondent Tom Greene, WJBK-TV in Detroit said Sunday Levin would announce his resignation shortly apparently to become a Democratic candidate for governor this fall.

A spokesman for Levin said late Sunday that the senator would have no comment on the report.

Levin has scheduled a news conference for 11 o'clock this morning to discuss the report.

Levin, 38, has been a senator since 1965. He became minority leader in Jan. 1969, when insurgent liberal senators toppled longtime leader Ray Dzendzel, Detroit.

Prior to his election as floor leader, Levin served as state Democratic chairman.

In its report, the television station said it learned Levin had decided to resign because he felt the jobs of candidate and party leader were incompatible.

County Airport Busy During '69

An increase in the number of aircraft using the Schoolcraft County Airport is noted in a year-end report by airport manager Vern Bernard.

There were 1,392 aircraft using the facilities in 1969 compared to 1,254 in 1968. In 1967, 758 aircraft were recorded and in 1966, only 593.

Bernard's report noted that many flights were canceled this past year due to bad weather, especially during deer season.

Fourteen pilot ratings were achieved during 1969. Those who qualified with a minimum of 40 hours flight time include Charles Patterson, Ivan Ladhe, Charles Lander and Frances Bernard, Manistique; Charles Waybrant, Sault Ste. Marie; Gordon Gill and James Boyd, Germfask; Roy Elsworth, Engadine; Keith Montcalm, Newberry; and Wayne Stokes, Escanaba.

In addition, Robert Lambert of Escanaba completed 240 hours flight time to qualify as a certified flight instructor; James Hendricksen of Manistique and Henry Van Brussell of Escanaba completed 200 hours for their commercial pilot licenses; and Bernard won his instrument flight instructor's license.

All ratings are achieved by meeting Federal Aviation Agency requirements.

DDT Firms Fear Crackdown On All Pesticides

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pesticide manufacturers worried that government moves to outlaw DDT might be extended to other pest killers have been assured by top Agriculture Department officials no such action will be taken without a detailed review.

Months could elapse before any action is taken, said Dr. Ned D. Bayley, USDA director of science and education. He added the first review of the chlorinated hydrocarbons or hard pesticides would begin in March.

Chemical companies became concerned after a government commission warned that a ban on DDT could result in increased usage of other hard pesticides such as dieldrin, aldrin, lindane, heptachlor and endrin. All are first cousin's of DDT.

Fearing that the Agriculture Department—with the backing of the departments of Interior and Health, Education and Welfare—might quickly shut the door on all hard pesticides, heads of some chemical companies have attempted to sound out the Agriculture Department on its future plans.

Baley declined to state what hard pesticides would be included in the first review scheduled to begin in March. But he indicated the first group could involve those chemicals such as dieldrin that are considered more dangerous than other chlorinated hydrocarbons.

The study will entail a review of all uses for which the pesticides are registered, Bayley said.

Instead of a sweeping ban, he continued, the department probably would move to outlaw those uses for which substitute chemicals or alternative methods of treatment are available.

He declined to speculate on the length of time it might take to conclude the studies.

You May Be In Dark With 100-Watt Bulb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any- one who thinks all 100-watt light bulbs give off the same amount of light is completely in the dark.

"The consumer thinks that when he buys a 100-watt bulb it gives off the same amount of light as any other 100-watt bulb," said Federal Trade Commission attorney Raymond L. Rhine.

But, Rhine said, that is not the case.

So he and his colleagues at the FTC are putting final touches on a regulation to require manufacturers to specify how long their bulbs will last and how much light they put out.

The basis of the proposed revisions are lumens—units for measuring the amount of light produced by a glowing object.

A standard 100-watt light bulb, for example, puts out about 1,600 lumens. A standard 75-watt bulb produces about 1,300 lumens.

The lumen output among the major standard light bulbs is fairly constant, offering purchasers some idea of how much light they could expect from a light bulb of certain wattage.

But with the advent of three-way and long-life bulbs, the problem has become more complicated.

The reason is that lumens and bulb life are like opposite ends of a see-saw. Decreasing the light output of a bulb gives it a longer life expectancy.

Thus the 100-watt long-life bulbs last about 2,500 hours compared with the 750-hour life of a standard bulb. But they put out 1,400 lumens, or 200 lumens less than the standard bulb.

And standard three-way light bulbs of the 50-100-150-watt variety, when burning at the 100-watt position, give off only about 1,500 lumens.

The long-life bulbs can be a godsend, however, for those awkward stairway receptacles which can be reached only after mounting a shaky ladder.

The major bulb manufacturers—General Electric, Westinghouse and Sylvania—have been rating their bulbs by lumens and life expectancy for years and provide the information in handbooks distributed to dealers.

The manufacturers did not object when the FTC proposed last September to put the information on most light bulb wrappers, but all three objected to inscribing the same information on the light bulb itself.

FTC staffers are now reviewing the government proposals and industry objections and submitting the conclusions for approval of the five commissioners.

NCA Mechanics Given Pay Hike

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Mechanics of North Central Airlines would get $1.71 more an hour in a proposed three-year contract, to a total $5.93, a union spokesman said Sunday.

The 634 mechanics, represented by the International Association of Machinists, got $4.22 under the old contract.

The proposed pact, worked out in negotiations under the threat of a strike the past week, also provides for a dental care insurance program, improvements in vacations, pension plan and hospitalization allowance, and increases in shift differentials and licensed premium pay.

About 90 per cent of North Central mechanics hold Federal Aviation Administration licenses.

Charles Easley, district general chairman for Machinists District Lodge 143 and chairman of the union negotiating committee, declined to release details of the proposal until members have had a chance to vote on it.

Membership meetings will be held during the week at the Minneapolis-St. Paul headquarters base of the airlines, as well as Chicago; Detroit; Milwaukee, Madison, and Green Bay, Wis., and Omaha, Neb., said Easley. The tentative agreement will be outlined and a vote of the membership taken.

Fisher Asks Jews To Aid In 'War'

ATLANTA (AP) — Max M. Fisher, president of the Council of Jewish Federations and Welfare Funds, has called on American Jews to help raise some $250 million to help Israel fight a "War of Attrition" against the Arabs.

Fisher, in a speech prepared for delivery at the United Jewish Appeal's Southwest Regional Conference here, said the war declared against Israel by President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, is now backed by more Soviet weapons than the Arabs possessed on the eve of the Six-Day War in 1967.

"It is our responsibility to do what we have always been expected to do, to pick up the costs of Israel's humanitarian and social service needs," Fisher said.

Fisher is a Detroit industrialist and urban affairs special advisor to President Nixon.

Film Stars Named To Fashion Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Here it is. The parade of often-talented, often-beautiful and almost always-rich people who have made the international best dressed list.

The list is the result of a poll of some 2,000 people in the fashion and social worlds. Names of those chosen for 1969 were announced Sunday by Eleanor Lambert, publicist and co-ordinator of the poll.

Men's Category

Over the years, the selection has become a little more democratic. A men's category has been added. The ranking system has been eliminated. Blacks have been honored, albeit in "token" proportions. This year Harry Belafonte was selected over men like Mayor John Lindsay of New York and Baron Alexis de Rede, both of whom are more "social" in the Establishment sense.

Hall Of Fame

Five men and one woman were chosen to the Fashion Hall of Fame as "perpetual symbols of excellence in dress." They are film stars Cary Grant and Douglas Fairbanks; Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh; Dean Acheson, former U.S. Secretary of State; Angier Biddle Duke, former ambassador to Spain and Denmark; and Baroness Philippine de Rothschild of France.

Best Dressed Women

The women on the 1969 list not professionally connected with fashion are:

—Mme. Ahmed Benhima (wife of the Moroccan ambassador to the United Nations). She is. The parade of often-talented, often-beautiful and almost always-rich people who have made the international best dressed list.

—Mrs. William McCormick Blair Jr., Washington, D.C. (wife of the former ambassador who now heads the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts). She wears Givenchy's creations.

—Mrs. Wyatt Cooper (Gloria Vanderbilt) of New York. She is dressed by Adolfo.

—Mrs. Kirk Douglas, Beverly Hills, California (wife of the actor). Molly Parnis fashions suit her.

—Mrs. Ahmet Ertegun, New York (wife of the music publisher). She is another Adolfo fan.

Others in this category include: Mrs. Robert Evans (Ali McGraw, actress); Mrs. Patrick Guinness, Paris and Lausanne, Switzerland; Her Highness Princess Salima, wife of the Aga Khan (former Lady Sarah Crichton-Stuart); Mrs. Graham Mattison, Paris (Brazilian-born wife of the American financier); Mrs. Charlotte Niarcho (former Charlotte Ford); Mrs. William Rayner, New York; Mrs. Charles Revson (wife of the cosmetics manufacturer); Mrs. Robert Sakowitz (former Pamela Zauderer); and Mrs. Harilaos Theodoropoulos (American-born wife of Greek shipping magnate).

Harry Belafonte

The men in private life who led the way in 1969 are: Gianni Agnelli (head of the Fiat Company of Italy); Adolphus Andrews (San Francisco business man); Harry Belafonte; Gianni Bulgari (Rome jeweler); Mi-

Congressional Fight Seen Likely Over HEW Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heat is intensifying in the first congressional battle of the 1970s, a confrontation on education and health spending in which Democrats see a key test of the nation's rating of priorities.

With the second session of the 91st Congress a week away, Republicans are trying to size up their strength on the measure.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, the GOP whip, said his aides are contacting Republican senators and their assistants to determine their stand.

The question is whether to send to the White House—and an "absolutely" certain veto—a compromise $19.7 billion appropriation for the Departments of Health, Education and Welfare; Labor, and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

That compromise bill, which still exceeds the Nixon budget by more than $1.2 billion, already has passed the House, and only a final Senate vote is needed to complete congressional action.

Griffin anticipates passage, expects a veto, and believes the Nixon rejection will be sustained, probably in the House, which would act first.

It would take a two-thirds vote to override a veto.

The National Education Association is mounting a lobbying and letter-writing campaign, urging Congress to override a Nixon veto.

Bryce N. Harlow, counselor to the President, has written Republican senators seeking support for the administration, contending it would be irresponsible to vote the budget-boosting appropriation during a time of inflation.

Democrats argue they have cut spending on the floor of Congress, and at the same time "reordered national priorities away from nonessential spending and closer to the health, welfare, educational, social and environmental needs that face this nation."

"It should be remembered that the additions to these vital domestic programs come to just 20 per cent of the savings made by the Congress in the President's military budget alone..." the Senate Democratic Policy Committee wrote party members.

Griffin acknowledged the battle will be tough, the more difficult for Republicans because the Democratic side of the argument is more easily dramatized.

One problem, he said, will be to illustrate more clearly the connection between federal spending and the rising prices confronting Americans.

Furthermore, Griffin said, the additional money added to the education and health budgets is in some cases misdirected, and in many instances cannot be efficiently spent.

Half of the year for which the money is to be appropriated already has passed, with the agencies involved financed by resolutions which continue their spending authority at past rates.

The latest resolution expires on Jan. 30 and it seems certain Congress will have to pass another one while the spending dispute is settled.

Viet Cong Sappers Have 1 Objective—Create Losses

provinces. They fear these attacks may increase as enemy forces bid for a major propaganda victory over American and South Vietnamese forces.

Recent Operation Cited

How the sapper operates, and the reasons he is so hard to stop, were demonstrated last week at Landing Zone Ross, a firebase and battalion headquarters of the 1st Marine Division's 7th Regiment, about 25 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The enemy fired a heavy night-time mortar barrage that eventually was figured at about 250 rounds. This drove the Marines and Seabees into their bunkers.

Then the sappers, many barefoot and wearing shorts, crawled agilely through the maze of concertina wire ringing the base.

Few Penetrate

Penetrating the defenses on four sides, a comparative assault made it through. Then they raced across the compound, dodging their own mortar fire. They fired weapons and hurled dynamite bombs and grenades at bunkers and buildings.

There was fierce, close-order combat, sometimes hand to hand, before the sappers were killed or driven back through the wire. At least 15 bodies were found inside or on the wire, and 18 others outside LZ Ross after the fighting ended.

Few GI Casualties

"They wasted their time," said one Marine captain, pointing out that the enemy did not reach the tactical operations center, the artillery guns, or any other important targets inside the firebase. Although some sappers were killed by their own mortars, the Marine said, the bombardment inflicted few casualties on the defenders.

But by the standards of the North Vietnamese—who have lost more than 200 men in single attacks of similar nature—the 13 Americans killed and 63 wounded might have been considered a victory. This was the most Americans killed in a single assault in almost two months.

Reason For High Losses

One reason for the high U.S. losses, officers said, is that the Marines were forced to keep their heads down in the mortar barrage. Another is the boldness and skill of the sapper units in getting to the perimeter—in this case across relatively flat, open country—and then through the defenses while their own mortar shells crash around them.

To keep the enemy off balance an American commander may vary his defenses, shift gun positions, keep his men in open fighting holes rather than bunkers. In the case of a night bivouac in the field, he may move the unit during the night.

Some officers think there is greater danger in the underground bunkers than above ground, since they are favorite targets of satchel-charges and grenades.

U. S. Officers Lax

There have been occasions when U.S. officers have been lax in setting up defenses against sappers, and have paid for it.

A company commander in the American Division's 196th Brigade was summarily relieved of command after sappers slipped through his unit's night defensive position and killed eight Americans and wounded five. Military sources said the company's foxholes weren't placed correctly and were too shallow. "We made a mistake," said one military officer, reconstructing the events. "But let's face it. Stopping sappers is a pretty tough job, even when you're playing heads-up ball."

Peace Program Leaders Eying Call To Laborers

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Leaders of a national peace movement planning mass rallies in cities across the nation for April 15 were to vote today on whether to issue a call to labor to join the movement.

The proposal before the national board of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam is for work stoppages in four major financial and industrial centers: New York, Detroit, Washington, and either Los Angeles or San Francisco.

It was outlined here in a week-end conference of the New Mobilization Committee during which plans jelled for the April 15th date.

Purpose of the anti-war demonstration is to emphasize resistance to "war taxation" and to create a national budget to service the needs of the people instead of supporting the war, said Sidney Lens, a mobilization group chairman. He said this was the significance of the April 15th date—the deadline for filing tax returns.

"This will be the peak of action for the New Mobilization—our peak offensive," Lens said. "We're talking about a much larger display of concern than either last October or November."

The new mobilization committee engineered the Nov. 15 moratorium in Washington, D. C.

The proposal calling for sympathy work stoppages was drafted by Stewart Meecham of Philadelphia, national peace education secretary of the American Friends Service Committee; Dr. Sidney Peck, a college professor who is scheduled for trial Jan. 19 in Chicago on charges of assaulting police officers and resisting arrest during the 1968 Democratic National Convention and Arthur Waskow, a staff member of the Peace Research Institute in Washington.

Also present at the conference here, which is to run through Tuesday, was Ronnie Davis, a member of the Chicago 7, under indictment in connection with the 1968 disorders at the Democratic National Convention. About 200 attended, including members of the Black Panther Party and the Resistance.

Asks Ouster Of Old Legislators

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Rep. Donald W. Reigle Jr., R-Mich., said Sunday many congressmen are too old and that there is a need for a real house cleaning. Reigle also said FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover should be replaced by a younger man.

"There are too many men in Congress who should not be there and that applies to both parties and to both the House and Senate," Reigle said. "Congress is too old, too inefficient, and too non-responsive. Congress in recent years has fallen way short of meeting the needs of the country."

As a freshman congressman three years ago, Reigle, at 27 became the youngest man ever named to the House Appropriations Committee.

Reigle said Hoover, like many chairmen of congressional committees, is too old.

"We have experienced in the past 10 years the worst increase in crime the nation has ever known," he said. "It is out of control. Organized crime operates virtually with a free hand. It is not enough for J. Edgar Hoover to quote crime statistics and wring his hands."

Reigle spoke before the Federation of State Associations of Independent Colleges and Universities. The federation met in conjunction with Sunday's opening of the 56th annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges.

He said Congress has spent $200 billion trying to achieve a set of national objectives.

"Yet there is evidence we are not getting the job done," he said. "We have too many things we don't want — high interest rates, high taxes, inflation, an unnecessary war in Vietnam, a crime crisis, and pollution destroying our environment. There is need for a concerted national effort by the people in 1970 to find and elect the very best men and women in the country. Reigle said there should be no candidate beyond the age of 70. He said a number of major committee chairmen in both houses are in their 70s and 80s. "You just can't have that kind of bottleneck and have Congress run the way it should," he said. "If we do, we can only expect a second rate performance and that is what we have now."

Longest Lakes Season Closes

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—The longest Great Lakes shipping season on record officially ended at 11:42 a.m. Sunday as the Irving S. Olds owned by U.S. Steel passed through the Poe Lock here.

The previous record for the longest shipping season was set last year when the last ship passed through the Soo locks on Jan. 4.

The shipping season on the Great Lakes normally ends in mid-December but has been extended in recent years as weather conditions permitted.

The Olds and the Phillip R. Clarke, another U.S. Steel vessel which preceded the Olds through the locks, were being conveyed to Lake Huron by the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mackinaw.

Officials said a total of 98,565-229 tons of cargo were shipped on the Great Lakes during the past season. This compares to the record of more than 128 million tons shipped during the 1953 season.

1,900 Telephone Calls Gambling Probe Tipoff

NEW YORK (AP) — The generosity of bigtime better Howard Sober of Lansing, Mich., who let his bookie use his credit card for 1,900 telephone calls was a major break in the investigation of a nationwide sports gambling ring, Time magazine says.

Time says in its Jan. 19 issue that Sober, 74-year-old trucker, had lost about $1 million to the bookie, Donald Dawson, since they were introduced in 1967 by Dizzy Dean, the former pitching great and sports broadcaster.

Dawson was one of 14 persons arrested on interstate gambling charges so far in the Detroit-centered investigation that reportedly has involved several athletes as witnesses.

Time said income tax investigators looking into Sober's financial affairs became interested in Dawson when they found that the numerous calls he made on Sober's credit card included talks with football and baseball players, horse owners, jockeys and trainers, as well as bookies and known mobsters.

The magazine listed three calls each to Kansas City Chiefs quarterback Len Dawson and Detroit Lions quarterback Bill Munson, and four to Los Angeles Rams reserve quarterback Karl Sweetan.

About 60 calls, Time said, were made by Donald Dawson to Frank Kush, head football coach of the University of Arizona.

The magazine said the Justice Department turned down a request from investigators to tap Dawson's telephone, but the probes gathered evidence through other sources after the credit-card discovery gave them clues.

Chiefs Stun Vikings In 1970 Super Bowl

Dawson Sparkles After Long Week

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "He aged five years this week. You looked into his face and you knew it wasn't the same Len Dawson."

Those words tell better than any the strain that the Kansas City quarterback lived with last week before he went out Sunday in front of a sellout crowd of 80,998 and some 50 million television viewers and led the Chiefs to a stunning 23-7 Super Bowl victory over the heavily favored Minnesota Vikings.

For those words are the words of Johnny Robinson, Dawson's longtime friend and roommate who watched his buddy turn into a solitude-seeking recluse in the cramped quarters of room 838 at the Fontainebleau Hotel during the week after reports linked his name with the nationwide gambling probe.

Not The Same
"Whenever I looked at him it wasn't the relaxed, easy-going Len Dawson I saw," said Robinson. "He was tense; he wanted to be in solitude. It was a tremendous pressure week for him. It was bothering him."

"There were things we would normally do he wouldn't do. He stayed in the room most of the time, even when some friends wanted to take us out. He only left to attend the daily conferences for the press and one night we went out about 9:30 for a couple dozen Louisiana oysters and a steam bath."

"He had some important things to think about." Dawson thought both about the stories he saw in the newspapers every day following his admission that he had a "casual acquaintance" with a Detroit restaurateur arrested in connection with the gambling probe — and he thought about his wife and two children.

"Lenny was more concerned about his wife and kids back in Kansas City than himself," said Jacky Lee, the Chiefs' reserve quarterback. "They were having to put up with an awful lot of stuff. Lenny knew the public was going to read more into it than is there."

Meets Problem
With all that on his mind, Dawson still managed to deal with the other problem he was facing—the Vikings, spending 1½ hours Saturday night going over films with Coach Hank Stram, something the two never do the night before a game. But then Dawson was having trouble remaining calm.

"I had diarrhea," Dawson admitted after the game. "I started to go to bed about 10, but I couldn't sleep. I got up about 4 and read the sports pages to see what people were saying about the game. I still couldn't sleep. I don't think I slept two hours all night."

"I guess it was a 24-hour virus." Others will guess that Dawson's sleepless night was the result of something else, but no one who saw him perform against the Vikings in the Sugar Bowl would even have thought about what Robinson, Lee and Dawson himself revealed in the game's aftermath.

For during the 60 minutes that he was on the field, Lenny Dawson was Lenny Dawson, quarterback.

Stunning Upset
Jan Stenerud kicked field goals of 48, 32 and 25 yards and Mike Garrett scored on a five-yard run for a 16-0 halftime lead that gave every indication that the American Football League champions were heading for a stunning upset of the two-touchdown favorites.

But those 60 minutes belonged to Dawson.

And not even a denial he made to President Nixon when he talked to the White House after the game can blur the picture.

"Thank you, Mr. President. I really appreciate it," said Dawson in a low voice as he accepted congratulations. "But it wasn't me, sir, it was the whole team that did it."

It was the whole team that did it, but the glare of the spotlight was on Dawson's shoulders, and he responded.

He was almost as perfect as a passer can be, directing the club almost flawlessly and completing 12 of 17 passes for 142 yards while winding up his performance, and the scoring, with a 46-yard touchdown throw to Otis Taylor.

Passing Works
He hit Garrett with a 16-yard pass and Frank Pitts with a 20-yard pass that set up Stenerud's 48-yard field goal—and it was 3-0. He hit Pitts with a 20-yarder and hit Otis Taylor with a pair of short ones that set up Stenerud's 32 yard field goal—and it was 6-0.

He sent Pitts scampering on an end-around maneuver that gained 19 yards and set up Stenerud's 25-yard field goal—and it was 9-0. And then he hit Taylor with a 10-yarder after a fumble recovery that set up

Garrett's Touchdown Run Key Play In 23-7 Victory

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Alan Page got caught cheating and the Minnesota Vikings got caught on the short end of a 16-0 halftime score in Sunday's Super Bowl because of a perfectly executed play 5½ minutes before intermission.

Mike Garrett squirted five yards up the middle to score a touchdown on the play, giving the Chiefs control of the game.

Kansas City delivered the knockout punch near the end of the third quarter when Otis Taylor pulled in a short pass from Lenny Dawson, broke two tackles and rumbled 46 yards to score the last touchdown in the Chiefs' 23-7 decision over the Vikings for pro football's richest plumb.

"The biggest play was the touchdown run of Garrett," Minnesota Coach Bud Grant said. "When they're inside the five-yard line, they run 100 per cent of the time. They haven't passed from there yet, so we shouldn't have been surprised. Yet he scored."

"I wish we could have made them settle for a field goal. Field goals won't beat us." The Vikings may have been looking for a run because of the Chiefs' predictability in the close-yardage situation, but they weren't looking for the play Kansas City called.

"It's something we've had, but we haven't run very often in that situation," Chiefs Coach Hank Stram said.

It is called the 65 Toss Power Trap in the Chiefs' terminology, and is designed to spring the halfback, Garrett, up the middle by trapping the defensive right end.

Jim Marshall, the Vikings' end was supposed to be the man trapped, but Page got cut down by Mo Moorman's block instead because he was there.

"Our left tackle (Jim Tyrer) pulls to the outside, influencing the end (Marshall)," Stram said. "Then, we trap him (Marshall) from the inside out (with Moorman)."

What actually happened on the play, however, was that Page cheated to the outside, and he was the man in the Vikings' defensive line who took the bait as Tyrer pulled.

"I got wiped out," Page said of the block Moorman leveled him with. "I should have been more inside conscious, but I was cheating to the outside."

The other key block in the play was delivered on Vikings' middle linebacker Lonnie Warwick by Chiefs' tight end Fred Arbanas. "I've never been hit any harder than Arbanas hit me," Warwick said.

The result of the blocks by Moorman and Arbanas left a neat path through the middle of the Vikings' defense for Garrett. "All I had to do was run through the hole," he said. "It had to be a very critical play for us," Stram said. "It gave us a big lift, getting the touchdown instead of a fourth field goal."

Stram also cited Taylor's touchdown run with the short pass as the game's other deciding play. "It was a great individual effort on Otis' part," Stram said. "We figured we could throw in front of their cornerbacks and gain yardage, but Otis turned that into a touchdown play."

Taylor fended off the tackle of Earnest Mackbee at the Minnesota 35-yard line, then ran over Karl Kassulke at the Vikings' 10.

"That run knocked us out of the game," Grant said. "It prevented us from any further comeback."

Courage Symbol
"The world looks up to pro football players for courage," the President told Dawson.

"We try to exemplify what is good in professional football," replied the quarterback, his face shining with sweat and one finger stuck in his right ear to keep out the locker room noise.

"I appreciate it, Mr. President. But it wasn't me, sir, it was the whole team that did it."

The telephone calls were significant.

Clean Bill
Rumors have been flying about the head of the 34-year-old former Purdue star who was questioned by pro football authorities in 1968 when three Kansas City games were taken off the betting board for some mysterious reason and who was listed only this week as one who might be questioned in the current gambling probe.

The President now virtually has given him a clean bill. It must be assumed that the President has some close ties with the Justice Department, which is making the investigation.

"The entire week was an ordeal," Dawson said after the game. "I never have been through anything like it before."

As he undressed, a heavy bandage was noticed binding his left knee because of an injury which forced him to miss six games during the season. His slender, 190-pound frame had bruises from head to foot.

He acknowledged that he had slept only a couple of hours Saturday and had even become ill with an attack of diarrhea, refusing to call a doctor for fear the doctor might not let him play Sunday's game.

"I may not have shown it, but I was a bundle of nerves when I took the field," Len said. "After I had completed that first pass, I relaxed. Then I concentrated on football."

Great Performance
It was a brilliant performance. Poised, cool, showing no effects either from his damaged knee or the mental strain of the past week, he picked the powerful, favored Vikings apart, completing 12 of 17 passes for 142 yards. One was a 46-yard touchdown throw to Otis Taylor that broke Minnesota's spirit in the third period.

Dawson prayed for courage, and it was supplied him. It was a masterful signal-calling, ball-throwing feat, completely vindicating him for past failures.

There were ugly whispers after the first Super Bowl game in Los Angeles in 1967. Dawson completed 16 of 27 passes and had one intercepted as the Green Bay Packers won the game 35-10. Some said Dawson backed away from pressure.

The entire season was one of aches, frustration, sorrow — and success — for the Chiefs' quarterback, who has thrown more touchdown passes than any other active quarterback. His father died during the season. But once he had 15 straight completions.

Dawson was asked in the dressing room if Sunday's game provided his greatest thrill in football.

"You can't get them any bigger," he said.

He was pale and appeared tired. He seldom smiled. He spoke so low that his words on many occasions were lost in the steamy, noise-filled air.

"You are 34 years old now and have been playing football 13 years," someone said. "Are you thinking of retiring?"

"Personally, I'd like to play next year but my wife may have other ideas," Dawson replied.

He called a small boy—Lenny, Jr., aged 11—to his side. Lenny wore a big red Kansas City button.

"Lenny wants me to play until he's big enough to help me," Len said, putting his arm around the proud, smartly-dressed youngster.

"My wife, Jackie, and daughter, Lisa—she's 15—want me to quit."

"The vote is 2-2. I don't know who will break the tie. We'll just have to wait and see."

President Clears Dawson Of Any Gambling Charges

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The telephone rang twice in the Kansas City Chiefs' locker room—"The White House calling," said an operator—and the result was a dramatic chapter in professional football history.

It was like something out of fiction.

The principal character was Len Dawson, the Chiefs' veteran quarterback, half-sick, limping on a gimpy knee, tortured by news all week that he might be called in a nation-wide sports gambling probe.

"I just prayed to the Good Lord that I'd have the strength and courage to play a good game," Dawson said after leading the American Football League champions to an impressive 23-7 victory over the heavily favored Minnesota Vikings.

His strength held, and no one doubted his courage. But much of the inspiration he poured into this magnificent performance must have come from the nation's No. 1 football fan, President Nixon.

Calls Stram
The President called Kansas City Coach Hank Stram first. He didn't talk to Dawson, but asked that Stram pass along a message to the Chiefs' players, Dawson in particular.

"He said he knew that there wasn't anything to the rumors that we were involved in early in the week," the Kansas City coach said. "He told us to dismiss it from our minds and go out and play like champions."

After the game there was another call of congratulations to Stram and a private call to Dawson, who had to return the call from an ante-room in the Kansas City dressing quarters, with scores of news and radio men hanging over his shoulders.

Dawson had to spell his name twice to the long distance operator — "D-A-W-S-O-N, Lenny Dawson"—and there were frequent breaks before he finally reached the nation's chief executive.

Courage Symbol
"The world looks up to pro football players for courage," the President told Dawson.

Hawks Crush Two Hockey Opponents

The Escanaba Hawks overwhelmed Newberry and Petoskey to open the 1970 Northern Hockey League season with two wins over the weekend.

In a Saturday night game held at the waterfront rink in Escanaba, the Hawks exploded for seven goals in a wild third period to bury Newberry 9-3.

Seven Escanaba players got into the scoring, led by J. Derkos and Dennis Bourdeau who notched two goals apiece.

Mike King turned in a great game in the Hawk net with 31 saves. Newberry outshot the Hawks 31-20 in a game marred by several unusual penalties.

Hat Tricks
Slick passing and hard shooting led the Hawks to an 8-4 victory over Petoskey in a game played Sunday afternoon at the latter's home rink.

Near perfect passing by Den Lancour and Dennis Bourdeau resulted in the Hawks first goal and they were never headed. Four times Lancour and Bourdeau turned fine passing into goals with Lancour scoring the three goal hat trick and Bourdeau tallying one.

Another Hawk hat trick was notched by Bob Gregg, who scored all three of his goals from scrambles in front of the Petoskey net. Ron Robinson assisted on all of the markers.

Standout
Richard "Dino" Menard scored the Hawks other goal when he rifled home an ankle-high drive from the blue line. Menard also played an outstanding game on defense, breaking up three Petoskey breakaways single-handedly.

Jack and Tom Bourdeau also looked good on defense, and Gary Provo was a constant scoring threat in both games.

Mike King had another stellar performance in the nets as the Hawks were again outshot 41-40.

"They started the game by dealing out some hard checks to slow us down, but we gave the hard knocks right back to them and slowed them up," said Hawk coach Bob Bourdeau regarding Petoskey.

Gladstone Nips Munising 75-73

MUNISING — The Gladstone Braves kept their Great Lakes Conference slate clean by turning back the stubborn Munising Mustangs Saturday night by the score of 75-73 in a hardwood thriller.

A respiration shot by Wayne Marshall with just one second showing on the Munising High scoreboard went through the hoop and gave the Braves their fourth straight conference win to keep pace with the high-flying Marquette Redmen who are also unbeaten in GLC action.

The game was a nip-and-tuck affair from the opening whistle with the lead changing hands numerous times in the early stages.

Iron Rangers Win Over Rochester
MARQUETTE — The Marquette Iron Rangers still hold a healthy lead in the United States Hockey League despite a protested 5-4 loss to Green Bay Friday night.

Marquette came back Saturday night to down Rochester again, 6-2, while the Bobcats were spanking the Soo Canadains 10-1 in Green Bay.

Coach Leonard (Oakie) Brumm issued a protest to Commissioner Harold Trumble in the Green Bay game because of the officiating.

The Bobcats invade the Pa-lestra next Sunday in a game billed as a "revenge" match by Brumm and his high-flying crew from the Prison City.

Young led all scorers with 39 points while Wickstrom sent 29 through the nettings for the Mustangs. Marshall finished the evening with 21 and Dunklee had 15 for the home club.

Munising managed a split for the evening when the jayvees copped, 80-70.

Ishpeming will test the Braves Friday night in Gladstone.

Unheralded Cage Squads Making Big Noise In U.P.

By JIM TRETHEWEY

They're unheralded, unranked and, outside of their immediate areas, almost unnoticed. But Upper Peninsula teams and fans might just as well be put on notice now: Escanaba Holy Name and Bessemer could be among the top contenders for two of the regional basketball crowns when tournament time rolls around in March.

Neither team has been considered a tournament power for years.

Bessemer, in fact, hasn't reached the regional round of post-season competition since 1957 and has won only three of 15 district games since then.

Over that same stretch, Holy Name got to the U.P. semifinals in 1958 and won the Peninsula Class B championship in 1962. The Crusaders have a 10-13 tournament record for the last 13 years.

The outlook is a bit more pleasant for both this year.

Holy Name currently has a 5-1 overall record and is 2-0 in Great Northern Conference play. The Crusaders' only setback was a one-point loss at Munising.

Bessemer is 4-0 in the Michigan-Wisconsin Conference and 7-1 overall. The Speed Boys' single loss was by two points in an overtime game at Crystal Falls.

Another similarity in the upsurge of these two schools is the fact that both have new coaches this winter.

Gordon LeDuc, who piloted Marquette Bishop Baraga to Upper Peninsula and Michigan Class D championships a year ago, is at the Crusaders' helm. Bessemer is now coached by Dave Johnson.

Both clubs have good height, experience and balanced scoring.

Holy Name, preparing to face city rival Escanaba and West Iron this week, probably should be rated on a par or nearly so with Negaunee (6-1) and defending champion Menominee (5-2) in Class B circles. Their big tests in upcoming Great Northern play will come in home-and-home series with Escanaba and Menominee.

Bessemer probably will continue almost unnoticed, as far as state ratings go, because of the all-winning streaks being compiled by the Peninsula Class C king, Houghton, and the 1969 runner-up, St. Ignace. But the Speed Boys, who face a tough home test against Wakefield, should no longer be ignored.

This week's U.P. schedule, one of the heaviest in years, features resumption of several arch-rival affairs.

Besides the Escanaba Holy Name-Escanaba and Bessemer-Wakefield meetings, highlights

Chiefs Rebound After 1st Loss

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "We had to live down the 1966 Super Bowl game just like Oakland will have to live with losing the American Football League championship last week," said Kansas City tackle Jim Tyrer.

The 6-foot-6, 270-pound veteran of nine years was thinking about four years ago — as were most of the other Kansas City players — when he talked in the dressing room Sunday after the Chiefs gave the Minnesota Vikings a 23-7 thrashing in the 1970 Super Bowl.

"That's the bad part about football. One week you're a champ and the next week you're a chump," continued Tyrer.

"We had a great season in 1966, but just like Oakland this year, everybody remembers the last game."

Tyrer could have been talking about the Vikings as well as Oakland.

As all-NFL center Mick Tingelhoff of the Vikings put it: "They just outplayed us and were a better team."

The articulate Tyrer said his team "fell short" in its first Super Bowl game, which the NFL's Green Bay Packers won 35-10, but "this time we represented the AFL the way it should have been represented."

The difference?

"There was a mystery, and awe, about the first Super Bowl game, the buildup and everything involved in it. Oh, I had played before much greater crowds before, even when I was at Ohio State. I don't know what it was," continued Tyrer.

"It wasn't fear or anything."

"Fortunately, there were enough players on our squad from 1966, who were exposed to the 1966 Super Bowl, that we were able to control the mental attitude, the mental approach. I hate to use the word 'mature' because it's a little trite, but this best exemplifies it."

Reserve Center Wins For Bruins

By The Associated Press

Meet UCLA's unheralded Mr. John Ecker.

Ecker isn't near the basketball plateau reached by UCLA's heralded and graduated Lew Alcindor — in fact, he isn't even a starter — but the reserve center was a mighty big man in the No. 1-ranked Bruins' 72-71 victory over Oregon State Saturday night.

Ecker replaced Sidney Wicks, who fouled out in the waning moments of the game, and hit the winning basket with four seconds left as the Bruins ran their record to 10-0.

All other members of The Associated Press' Top Ten won, except ninth-ranked Ohio University which was trounced 85-65 by Bowling Green as Jim Connolly and Rich Walker gunned in 20 points each for the winners who hit 78 per cent of their field goal attempts.

Dan Issel scored 37 points and grabbed 13 rebounds as second-ranked Kentucky drubbed Florida 88-69, and No. 3 South Carolina stopped Maryland 55-44.

With Charlie Scott connecting on six-of-seven shots in one stretch and totaling 29 points, fourth-ranked North Carolina fought off 19th-ranked Duke 86-78.

Big Bob Lanier banged home 42 points in No. 5 St. Bonaventure's 94-65 romp over Kent State, and sixth-ranked New Mexico State toyed with Montana State 106-68.

Miami of Florida held 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore to 13 points but No. 7 Jacksonville still coasted, 121-87 as Rex Morgan sparked the victory with 29 points, while No. 8 Davidson downed West Virginia 92-80 behind Brian Adrian's 31-point performance.

Tenth-ranked North Carolina State got a scare from Wake Forest and needed a 29-point showing from Vann Williford and five points by sophomore Ed Leftwich in the last 85 seconds before winning 75-72.

In the Second Ten, No. 11 Houston topped West Texas State 91-83, No. 12 Tennessee was upset 61-56 by Georgia, No. 13 Marquette downed De Paul 72-60, No. 14 Washington edged Stanford 76-73 in overtime, No. 15 Niagara trounced Canisius 101-75, No. 16 Oklahoma lost 72-56 to Kansas State, No. 17 Co-

Esposito Brothers Top Hockey Action Sunday

By The Associated Press

The Esposito Brothers — Chicago's Tony and Boston's Phil — dominated National Hockey League action Sunday. But Montreal rookie Bob Sheehan will remember the day longer.

Tony Esposito clinched the National Hockey League's first half Vezina Trophy lead and the $250 bonus that goes with it by beating Los Angeles 3-1 and brother Phil picked up his first three-goal hat trick of the season, and assisted on another in Boston's 6-3 romp over Oakland.

Sheehan, only the second American-born player ever to perform for Montreal, celebrated his 21st birthday by scoring his first NHL goal at the 17-second mark of the first period to help the Canadiens beat New York 4-1.

In Saturday's games, Toronto edged Boston 4-3, Detroit downed Pittsburgh 5-3, Chicago ripped St. Louis 6-2, Oakland tied Philadelphia 2-2 and Los Angeles defeated Minnesota 6-4.

Esposito had a two-goal lead over New York's Ed Giacomin as the Hawks took the ice for their 38th game — the halfway mark — of the season.

The Hawks' rookie goalie shut out the Kings for almost 51 minutes before surrendering Bill Flett's goal — LA's only score of the night. That gave Chicago 87 goals allowed in 38 games — one less than New York had allowed at the halfway point.

The Vezina goes to the goalie who plays the most games for the team allowing the fewest goals. The lead at the halfway point is worth a $250 league bonus.

Gilles Marotte, Dennis Hull and Doug Mohns scored Chicago's goals.

Esposito's brother, Phil, had a big game for the Bruins. The lanky center ran his goal total for the season to 20 with his first hat trick. He had two three-goal games last year when he established an NHL record 126 points to win the scoring title.

He scored twice inside of 1:37 of the first period — the first goal coming with the Bruins short-handed at 16:05 and the second on a power play at 17:42.

The victory over Oakland stretched Boston's unbeaten streak against the NHL's West Division to 20 games and moved the Bruins within two points of first-place New York in the tight East Division race.

The Rangers were beaten at Montreal on the premiere of the NHL's nationally televised game of the week, Sheehan, a native of Weymouth, Mass., playing his first pro season, put the Canadiens on top quickly and Montreal sealed the victory with a pair of third period goals by Bobby Rousseau.

That left New York with 53 points, Boston with 51 and Montreal with 50 as the NHL season turns into its second half.

Phoenix Five Dumps Royals

By The Associated Press

They planned a National Basketball Association game played for charity in Omaha, Neb., and, while they were at it, Connie Hawkins and Gail Goodrich staged a clinic on how to shoot.

In the unscheduled clinic Sunday night, Hawkins hit on 12-of-18 field goal attempts and 15-of-20 foul shots for 39 points and Goodrich connected on 12-of-22 from the floor and 12-of-14 free throws to lead the Phoenix Suns to a 125-118 victory over the Cincinnati Royals.

Johnny Green led Cincinnati with 27 points and Oscar Robertson, who made just two free throws in the first quarter and sat out the second, added 24.

There were no other NBA games, while the only scheduled American Basketball Association action Sunday, Los Angeles held off Miami 103-98.

Saturday in the NBA, San Diego took New York 123-115, Baltimore trounced Atlanta 130-109, Phoenix edged Philadelphia 119-117, Detroit nipped Seattle 129-128, Milwaukee mauled Boston 124-109, and Chicago outlasted Los Angeles 116-112 in overtime.

Casper Notches Victory In Los Angeles Tourney

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Now," said Billy Casper, "I guess I can go to work on the second million."

The placid, rock-steady veteran who went into for him — a mild decline last year, had just defeated bitterly disappointed Hale Irwin in a sudden-death playoff for the $200,000 first prize in the Los Angeles Open golf tournament.

The earnings pushed his career total to $1,001,924.48, second only to Arnold Palmer on the all-time list.

"You just go out and do the best you can," said the quiet, gentlemanly Casper, whose mild, unassuming manner at one time gained him the title "golf's invisible man."

"You never know what's going to transpire, how you're going to do," Casper said. "That's what makes this the wonderful game it is. All you can do, in golf or anything else, is to do your best."

It was a heart-breaking loss for the 24-year-old Irwin, a former football star at Colorado who never before had finished higher than 10th in regular tour event.

Irwin, the third-round leader, held a two-stroke lead with four holes to play. Then "everything

I've worked for two years, everything I had hopes for, slipped through my fingers."

He bogeyed the 15th when he was short of the green and had only a one stroke lead.

Casper finished a few minutes later with a one-over-par 72 for 276 and was in the clubhouse relaxing and listening to a radio account of Irwin's progress on the final few holes.

"I can get just as excited about this young man winning," Billy said, "as I could about winning it myself."

Moments later Irwin pushed his tee shot into the rough on 18, hit a tree limb coming out, was on in three and two-putted for a bogey that gave him a closing 73 for 276 and forced a sudden-death playoff.

They went to the 15th both drove the fairway and Irwin put his second shot in the fringe about 12 feet from the pin. Casper laced a seven iron 141 yards to within four feet. Irwin missed his putt and the quiet veteran of 17 years on the tour dropped his for his 43rd tour triumph.

"I feel just fine," Casper said. "Maybe it's the start of another good year."

Casper won only two official tournaments last year and made $106,000 — his lowest figure in four years.

"It's a good start," he admitted.

Irwin was inconsolable.

"You just don't know what this means," he said. "Winning a tournament — and not having to qualify for a whole year — well, it's worth an immeasurable amount of money."

"That qualifying is always on your mind. Monday qualifying is the toughest thing there is in golf — except winning a tournament."

"He'll win," Casper said. "There will be a lot of first time winners this year. There were 12 last year and for every one of them there are six more in the wings waiting their turn."

Scores generally were high in the steady rain that deposited puddles and lakes all over the 6,821-yard, par-71 Rancho Park Gold Club course.

Dave Hill and Bob Lunn finished in a tie for third at 277, Hill with a final 70 and Lunn a 71. Terry Dill, 70, and Bob Smith, who had the day's best round, 66, followed at 278. Don Massengale, Grier Jones, Ken Still and Dave Stockton followed at 279.

Palmer, who was seeking his third consecutive victory, slogged through the mud to an uninspired 73 and finished far back in the field at 284.
